

NEW ISLAND
Rights Catalogue 2021

Contact:

New Island Books
Glenshesk House
10 Richview Office Park
Clonskeagh, Dublin
D14V8C4, Ireland
www.newisland.ie

Edwin Higel, Publisher
Email: edwin.higel@newisland.ie

Mariel Deegan, General Manager
Tel: +353 1 278 4225, ext 101
Email: mariel.deegan@newisland.ie

Aoife K. Walsh, Commissioning Editor
Tel: +353 12878 4225, ext 102
Email: aoife.walsh@newisland.ie

for French rights please contact
LORA FOUNTAIN & ASSOCIATES
LITERARY AGENCY
agence@fountlit.com
+33 1 43 56 21 96

2022-2023
FORTHCOMING FICTION

LENNY

Laura McVeigh

Gorgeously written tale of a young boy and the impact he makes on those around him, responding to the classic The Little Prince.

Ten-year old Lenny wants to save his home, Roseville in Louisiana, from the sinkhole that threatens to destroy it. His parents, Jim and Mari-Rose struggle to care for him and Lenny takes refuge in the story of The Little Prince. Because Lenny is also homeless, sleeping rough in the Bayou swampland, and his only true friends are long-retired and long-heartbroken schoolteacher Miss Julie and Lucy, the ever-so-slightly odd town librarian. Venturing deep into the Bayou, Lenny resolves to use his imagination to save his hometown and everyone he loves while readers will pay the ultimate price to set their imagination free.

LAURA McVEIGH is from County Down, Northern Ireland. She is a graduate of Cambridge University and the University of London, an alumna of the Royal Court Theatre Young Writers' Programme and a Fellow of the Royal Society of Arts. Her debut novel was an international bestseller, published in ten languages. Laura lives in Mallorca and London with her family.

March 2022 | 81,000 words
Rights available: World
Rights sold: World English audio

Praise for Under the Almond Tree:

‘as indispensable as it is timeless... a truly essential read.’

- Irish Independent

‘vivid... memorable... comes brilliantly to life’ - The Irish Times

‘compassionate but uplifting portrayal of resilience in the face of unimaginable suffering.

- The Literary Sofa

SLANT

Katherine O'Donnell

A unique novel spanning Boston and Ireland, focusing on the experience of gay women during and after the AIDS crisis of the 1980s.

Taking its title from Emily Dickinson's poem: 'Tell all the truth but tell it slant —', Slant is an historical novel (1986-2015), framed by a love story, rippling with humour and politics.

Slant opens with our protagonist, 22-year-old Corkwoman Ro, an undocumented worker in 1980s Boston. Forced by economic pressure and societal disapproval to leave Ireland, she struggles to find her place in America as an 'illegal alien'. Ro falls for Jenny, an upper-middle class English doctoral student at Harvard.

The narrative then follows Ro's on-going entanglement with Jenny; her relationship with a manipulative older woman; her immersion in AIDS activism as her young gay male friends start to die; and her subsequent move back to her hometown in Cork in the 1990s where she finds a community of beleaguered fellow queers. Ro discards a promising academic career to be a nursing assistant in an elder care centre. Throughout, Jenny and Ro maintain an erotically-charged relationship in spite of their lives taking different paths.

As the novel moves towards its conclusion, we find Ro canvassing door-to-door in advance of the referendum on Marriage Equality in Ireland in 2015, still haunted by her past.

Spring 2023 | 93,000 words
Rights available: World

KATHERINE O'DONNELL was born in Cork and worked briefly as a journalist before going to Boston College on a Fulbright Scholarship. She is Associate Professor for the History of Ideas in University College Dublin. Slant is her first novel.

PERPETUAL COMEDOWN

Declan Toohey

A vibrant, dynamic literary debut that blazes off the page, trumpeting a great new talent in Irish literature.

An experimental, trippy, funny, dark investigation into the mental breakdown of a literature student as he attempts to prove the existence of a third narrative dimension!

Doctoral student Darren Walton tries to elucidate an elaborate conspiracy theory he stumbled across as an undergraduate. In doing so, however, he is not only plunged into a dark and dangerous world, but is also forced to acknowledge some unpleasant truths about his personality, privilege, mental health, and general worldview.

Drawing on the author's own experience, the protagonist will ultimately realise he cannot go through this life alone. And that academia isn't all it's cracked up to be...

DECLAN TOOHEY is an Irish writer, who has spent some time living in Prince Edward Island, Canada. His fiction and criticism have appeared in Soft Punk, The Dublin Review of Books, Stone of Madness Press, The Blue Nib, Idle Ink, and the anthology Queer Love, among others. In 2021 he was a co-winner of the Irish Writer's Centre Novel Fair with his manuscript Perpetual Comedown. He is currently enrolled on an MFA in University College Dublin.

Spring 2023 | 55,000 words
Rights available: World

2022-2023
FORTHCOMING NON-FICTION

THE KILLING OF THOMAS NIEDERMAYER

David Blake Knox

New edition to coincide with release of documentary on subject by RTÉ, BBC and ARTÉ.

New edition April 2022 | 77,000 words
Rights available: World

Just after Christmas in 1973, Thomas Niedermayer, manager of Grundig's Northern Ireland factory, was bundled into a car outside his home in West Belfast. He was never seen alive again by his friends or family.

Thomas and Ingeborg Niedermayer had survived the horrors of the Second World War to build a new life for their family in Northern Ireland, only to be caught up in a conflict with which they had no direct connection. His kidnapping was planned by one of his own employees, and was intended to secure the transfer of IRA prisoners, including Dolours and Marian Price, to jails in Northern Ireland. However, within three days Thomas Niedermayer was dead. It would be seven years before his body was found under an illegal rubbish tip close to his family home. The lives of those closest to him had been shattered and his wife and their two daughters would all take their own lives in the years after his murder.

In the first comprehensive account of one of the darkest and mostly forgotten episodes of the Troubles, David Blake Knox unravels the complex web of personal and political circumstances that combined to destroy an entire innocent family.

DR DAVID BLAKE KNOX was educated in Ireland and at Cambridge University in England. He has worked as a TV Producer for RTÉ in Dublin, the BBC in London and HBO in New York. While in RTÉ, he devised and produced the innovative Nighthawks TV series, and was Director of TV Production. He established Blueprint Pictures, an independent TV and Film production company, in 2002.

COURTING IN THE COUNTRY

Irish Rural Dating (working title)

Liadán Hynes

September 2022 | 60,000 words
Rights available: World

A fascinating insight into the changing landscape of dating in rural Ireland.

How we meet people is informed by a variety of evolving social, cultural and often political circumstances and so the change in dating habits in Ireland could reflect broader changes in Ireland in recent years. Where once an Irish person might have been mortified to explicitly state an interest in another, now the Irish are dating with the confidence and energy of our North American cousins! We seem to have caught up quite quickly on the whole dating thing and we're enjoying ourselves while we're at it. But what of the bachelor sons left behind to inherit the farm after their sisters emigrated to foreign cities for office and factory jobs? And what of the immigrant who finds themselves, not in The Big Smoke, but in a Little Smoke – Limerick or Galway or Skibbereen – settling in and ready to mingle? How does the change in who is dating alter how we are dating?

In the wake of bestsellers like John Connell's The Cow Book and Maura McElhone's Falling for a Farmer, there's an appetite for another book that kindly probes one of the most intimate and revealing parts of being a human in Ireland today. Featuring interviews from across the spectrum of Irish rural life, Hynes' fascinating insight into modern dating will be cheerful, warm and respectful, aware and energetic, humorous and knowing.

LIADÁN HYNES is a freelance journalist who lives in Dublin with her daughter. She hosts the podcast How to Fall Apart, which examines how people coped, or didn't cope, during the difficult times in life, and writes a weekly column called Things Fall Apart, about putting life back together after separation, and being a single parent.

ULYSSES

A Reader's Odyssey

Daniel Mulhall

An insightful companion to Ulysses, published in its centenary year, from Ireland's unofficial literary ambassador.

Publishing in the centenary year of the publication of Ulysses, Ambassador Daniel Mulhall's exciting and accessible guide to Joyce's masterpiece arises is a brilliant new guide for everyone. It is an initiation into the pleasures and wonders of Joyce's writing and of the world that inspired it, written by a gregarious and erudite author, diplomat and international spokesman for Irish literature around the world. It is a studious and loving exploration through Joyce's greatest work as well as an all-out celebration of Ulysses.

DANIEL MULHALL is Ireland's Ambassador in Washington DC. He was born in Waterford, Ireland, and graduated from University College Cork with a MA in Irish History. He has spent more than forty years in Ireland's diplomatic service and is known throughout diplomatic and cultural spheres as a champion of Irish literature and arts.

January 2022 | 65,000 words
Rights available: World

2021
FICTION

I, ANTIGONE

Carlo Gébler

Major new retelling of the life and pre-life of Oedipus Rex, as written by his daughter Antigone.

I, Antigone, have closed my eyes.

Set in the seventh century BC, I, ANTIGONE purports to be Antigone's biography of her father, Oedipus, as she attempts to set the record straight on his life and death: beset by forces over which he had no control, it was impossible for him not to have lived and done as he did, that he was not 'bad' but that he was simply human. And in this act of literary labour, she transforms herself into writer and maker, Antigone triggers the final act of her life, her own demise.

Revealing the complex, tragic and surprising backstory of Sophocles' ancient plays, I, ANTIGONE stands for author Carlo Gébler's response to the strange political times we live in: when opinions are polarised and certainties so absolute, Antigone tells us that we are not categorically wrong or right, exclusively pre-programmed or free but rather that we are all and both, we are various.

I, Antigone, have opened my eyes.

September 2021 | 76,000 words
Rights available: World
Rights sold: World English audio

'His finest novel to date, [it] changes the way we read fiction.'
— Gerald Dawe

'Fresh and vital ... a wonderful achievement' — Roddy Doyle

CARLO GÉBLER is a novelist, biographer, playwright, memoirist, critic and occasional broadcaster. His novels include The Cure, How to Murder a Man and The Innocent of Falkland Road. He is an expert at adapting classic literature for a modern readership, while maintaining, even enhancing, the integrity of the original, including his 2019 retelling of Aesop's Fables.

WE SELDOM TALK ABOUT THE PAST

Selected Stories

John MacKenna

A new selection of short stories from one of Ireland's finest writers.

WE SELDOM TALK ABOUT THE PAST is John MacKenna's first selected collection of short stories, from a career spanning over three decades. The stories selected come from four collections of short fiction, and represent a culmination of MacKenna's work in a form of writing he has made uniquely his own.

Often compared to John McGahern, and Raymond Carver, and deeply influenced by masters of the form such as Chekhov, MacKenna's stories focus on the quotidian truths of our lives, of the momentousness of small moments, of sexual desire and its intimate entanglement with the domestic, of deeply felt absences and social mores, and always at the heart of his work, the sense of place, often the rural, and the acute receptiveness of our lives to the places we inhabit.

JOHN MACKENNA is the author of fifteen books – novels, short-story collections, memoir, poetry and biography – and a number of radio and stage plays. He is a winner of The Irish Times, Hennessy and Cecil Day-Lewis Awards.

August 2021 | 70,000 words
Rights available: World

‘A consummately skilled author.’
– The Guardian

‘John MacKenna’s short stories are a wonder.’ – The Irish Times

‘MacKenna is McGahern’s inheritor; he harvests and hoards his words, knowing their nuance, their gram-weight worth.’
– Scotland on Sunday

WORDS TO SHAPE MY NAME

Laura McKenna

‘An ambitious and vital novel with an epic sweep ... This book is an act of salvage, performed with great skill: cleanly written, sharp-eyed, undeceived.’ – Hilary Mantel

London, 1857. Harriet Small has been left an unusual collection of papers: her father Tony’s True Narrative of his life after escaping slavery and his journey into the heart of Revolutionary Ireland.

Nearly sixty years earlier, ‘Faithful’ Tony’s pages show a complex, co-dependent and sometimes turbulent friendship with his master, Lord Edward FitzGerald. With Edward, Tony had hoped to begin a new life – to belong – only to find himself a stranger in a strange land who often comprehends better than his employer the racism, privilege and power that drive the inequalities of their time. As historical events gallop towards their devastating conclusion, Tony learns that the sacrifices to be free are never-ending. And as difficult and heartbreaking as it is to read her father’s story, Harriet comes to realise there is more than one way to be free.

From war in South Carolina to genteel drawing rooms in Kildare, Words to Shape My Name is an adventurous novel about hope, failure and resilience and the importance and power of storytelling.

February 2021 | 115,000 words
Rights available: World excl. USA.

‘Words to Shape My Name unspools a complex story in a daring and ambitious style reminiscent of Joseph O’Connor and Hilary Mantel. By turns demanding, lucid and poignant, McKenna’s debut is the song of a writer who is here to stay.’ – Colum McCann

LAURA MCKENNA is a writer of fiction and poetry. She has a PhD in Creative Writing. Words to Shape my Name was a finalist at the 2020 Novel Fair and longlisted for the 2019 Bath Novel Award.

THE GARDEN

Paul Perry

The Garden is dying.

Once an Edenic orchid farm, it has been decimated by the worst hurricane in Florida's living memory. Its glasshouses are shattered, the surrounding mangroves encroach, and its men are dangerously idle. When Romeo – an expert breeder of the endangered ghost orchid – arrives from Honduras, boss Blanchard and his Irish lieutenant, Swallow, believe their fortunes are on the up.

Romeo may not be what he seems though, and Swallow can sense the newcomer shaking the Garden's creaking hierarchy. The ghost orchid they seek is infamously rare, a delicate and wildly valuable species, hidden deep in the treacherous cypress swamps of the Fakahatchee Strand. To capture the ghost, Blanchard and Swallow must strike a deal with Logan, a dangerously unpredictable member of the local Seminole tribe, whose wounded pride, and simmering ebb of violence threaten to uproot any hope of success.

The Garden is the first solo novel by PAUL PERRY, formerly one half of the international bestselling thriller-writing duo Karen Perry and an award-winning poet. In this modern fable, Perry tells of smothering power, loyalty and agency thwarted by the tragic patterns of memory and behaviour.

May 2021 | 65,000 words
Rights available: World (print and ebook)
Rights sold: World English audio

‘With an impressive atmosphere of Conradian disquiet, this is a vivid and exceptionally exciting novel.’
– Sebastian Barry

‘a gripping and finely calibrated morality fable with dark slippery textures.’
– Sunday Independent

‘A lush evocation of obsession and betrayal’ – Anne Enright

‘Part modern parable, part noirish thriller, The Garden is an intriguing, atmospheric read where you can almost taste the salty sweat on every page.’
– Sunday Business Post

2021
NON-FICTION

A VERY STRANGE MAN

A Memoir of Aidan Higgins

Alannah Hopkin

This is a love story, set in the Irish literary world between 1986 and 2015. When they were first introduced by the poet Derek Mahon, Alannah Hopkin was an arts journalist turned full-time writer and Aidan Higgins, twenty-three years her senior, was a literary stylist, often cited as the heir to Ireland's great Modernist tradition. They wrote steadily during their twenty-nine years together, but their careers could not have been more different: while Aidan focused on fiction and memoirs, Alannah prioritised work that paid the bills. This gave Aidan the most stable and productive years of his life. But as his eyesight failed and his memory began to fade, Alannah became his carer and had to fight to keep her own writing career alive.

Drawing from diaries and notebooks, and correspondence with writers such as Samuel Beckett, Alice Munro and Harold Pinter, this is a unique record of a major Irish writer. From the joyful honeymoon years – filled with launches, festivals and visits to their Kinsale home by Richard Ford, Edna O'Brien and other literary legends – to the increasingly difficult years of Aidan's decline, Hopkin tells their story candidly and without commentary. She shows us how, in spite of all, they remained the best of friends, in love until Aidan's very last breath. A Very Strange Man is an exceptional piece of writing, objective and authoritative, personal, honest and moving.

April 2021 | 110,085 words
 Rights available: World (print and ebook)
 Rights sold: World English audio

ALANNAH HOPKIN is based in southwest Ireland. In 2020 she was the Frank O'Connor International Short Story Fellow at University College Cork. Her story collection The Dogs of Inishere was published by Dalkey Archive Press in 2017.

'Aidan Higgins' unique sensibility made him a giant tree in the forest of Irish literature.' – Annie Proulx

'Among the richest accounts I've ever read of lives devoted to writing.' – Rob Doyle, The Irish Times

IRELAND'S HIDDEN HISTORIES

A Story a Day from our Little Known Past

Frank Hopkins

If you are looking for happy, positive or uplifting stories then this might not be the book for you.

If, on the other hand, tales of human tragedy, executions, wars, grave-robbing, rioting, man-eating Kerry eagles, rat-eating Belfast gamblers and Ardee crossdressers are the things that fascinate you, come right on in.

From the depths of the island's past, to more recent booms and busts, Irish history is replete with mesmerising stories and intriguing tales.

In this fascinating and often hilarious romp through the lesser-known facts of Irish history, Frank Hopkins delivers a story for every single day of the year.

Based on years of extensive research, and delivered with Hopkins' unique wit and humour, Ireland's Hidden Histories is a must for Irish history lovers, general readers, and anyone with a curiosity for the strange antics of our forebears.

September 2021

334pp

Rights available: World

FRANK HOPKINS lives in Dublin. He has written for the Herald and Sunday Tribune newspapers and the Irish Echo in Australia. He is the author of St Stephen's Green: A History of the Green and Its Environs (2021), Hidden Dublin: Deadbeats, Dossers and Decent Skins (2008) and Rare Old Dublin: Heroes, Hawkers and Hoors (2002).

DONKEY'S YEARS

Memories of a Life as Story Told

Donkey's Years is the first volume of memoirs from one of Ireland's greatest writers, Aidan Higgins.

In it he fixes his unerring gaze on his own childhood and patheistic adolescence on a run-down estate within the English Pale. The boy comes to grips with the world among the delights and terrors of the big house and garden in County Kildare in Ireland. The world outside is first encountered in the steamy atmosphere of an Irish Catholic boarding school, where the strap and the pandybat are plied vigorously and priests warn of damnation. That closed era during and just after World War II is unceremoniously pried open.

Displaying the wit, sensuality and highly personal style that makes him such a distinct and classic wordsmith, Donkey's Years serves as a literary and sensuous rendering of one man's life and the forces that compelled him towards a life of letters.

AIDAN HIGGINS (1927–2015) grew up in Celbridge, County Kildare, in an Anglo-Irish family. His first collection of stories, Felo de Se (1960) was recommended by Samuel Beckett to his London publisher, John Calder, and subsequently published by Grove Press in New York and by Beckett's own publisher in Paris. He was recipient of the James Tait Black Memorial Prize and the Irish Academy of Letters Award. Balcony of Europe (1972), was short-listed for the Booker Prize.

April 2021

352pp

Rights available.: World

‘One of my all-time favourite memoirs.’

– Annie Proulx

‘A wondrously evocative masterpiece.’

– Spectator

‘Few books inspire like this.’

– Dermot Healy

‘Higgins’ portrait of himself and of his people, embedded in the boggy terrain of history, class, and collective memory, is one of the finest in literature.’ – Boston Globe

EMERALD EXILES

Barry Landy

*The story of Irish footballers abroad
- an Irish sports book that is truly international.*

Irish emigration long predated the globalisation which ultimately led to long-distance, intercontinental travel becoming the norm. As people ventured beyond their borders, cultures increasingly interacted. No sport has been changed so irrevocably by this development than football and few countries have a diaspora so widely dispersed the world over than Ireland.

THE EMERALD EXILES charts the impact of the Irish footballing travellers on the global game, from pioneers like Jack Kirwan, a Dublin inter-county GAA player who became Ajax's first manager, Barcelona saviour Patrick O'Connell and groundbreaking star Ann O'Brien to more modern heroes like Liam Brady, Robbie Keane and Louise Quinn.

The changing face of world football didn't necessarily leave the Irish behind - some players journeyed to meet it, in all corners of the globe. These are their stories.

October 2021

224pp

Rights available: World

BARRY LANDY is a freelance sports reporter for a number of national newspapers including the Irish Independent, Irish Daily Mirror, Irish Daily Star and The Irish Sun. He is the former editor of The Emerald Exiles, a website dedicated to following the fortunes of Irish footballers plying their trade outside of the UK and Ireland.

THE NEW FRONTIER

Reflections from the Irish
Border

James Conor Patterson (ed)

100 years on from the partition of Ireland, writers most affected by that divide reflect on the Irish border.

This anthology seeks to redress the dearth of border voices in debates surrounding their own lived realities. Indeed, one of the major frustrations of the Brexit debate is the presumption in media circles – both British and Irish – that citizens from border regions can be spoken for. This collection offers the opportunity for border writers themselves to make their voices heard, and to offer perspectives on the region from a range of personal, social and political experiences.

Featuring fiction, non-fiction and poetry, from some of Ireland's most exciting new and established voices, The New Frontier seeks to interrogate the meaning of borders in the 21st Century. The psychic influence of the Irish border in particular, a century on from the Partition of the island and the creation of the Northern Irish statelet in 1921, is of particular relevance given that 2021 marks the centenary year of this contentious event. Drawing on each writer's personal experiences and interpretations, the anthology ultimately poses the question: What does it mean to be Irish in the modern age, and can a nation which – to borrow from Walt Whitman – 'contains multitudes' ever achieve consensus?

October 2021

338pp

Rights available: World ex. audio

FEATURED AUTHORS:

Conor O'Callaghan Darran Anderson
Garrett Carr Luke Cassidy Nidhi Zak
Kerri ní Dochartaigh Michael Hughes
Séamas O'Reilly Pat McCabe Lias
Saoudi Maureen Boyle Emily Cooper
Dean Fee Jill Crawford Annemarie
ní Chuirrean Peter Hollywood John
Kelly Michelle Gallen Marcel Krueger
Eoghan Walls Orla McAlinden Bronagh
McAtasney Míchéal McCann Jess
McKinney Maria McManus

IF MEMORY SERVES ME WRONG

*Ronan Smith and Sue
Leonard*

When the actor/producer Ronan Smith was in his twenties, his father contracted Early Onset Alzheimer's Disease, an illness he steadfastly refused to acknowledge. As he continued to work, it fell to Ronan to protect his father, and as his condition worsened, to commit him into care.

When, in 2014, Ronan was, himself, diagnosed with the same illness, he knew exactly what the future held. If Memory Serves Me Wrong recounts the experience both of caring for someone with Alzheimer's Disease, and of living with it. Through Ronan's proactive stance, we can see how our view of the illness has changed since his father's day.

This is a fascinating, heartrending, harrowing but often humorous account of how it feels to live with, and be slowly taken over by a devastating illness.

RONAN SMITH (born 1957) has had a distinguished career as an actor, director and producer, working in most of the major theatres in Dublin and with many of Ireland's leading companies.

SUE LEONARD is a journalist and ghost-writer and is the co-author of two number one bestsellers: Whispering Hope: The True Story of the Magdalene Women (Orion, 2015) and An Act of Love with Marie Fleming.

May 2021

240pp

Rights available: World excl. North America.

2020
KEY TITLES

SECRETS NEVER TOLD

Dermot Bolger

In his first collection of short stories, bestselling Irish novelist Dermot Bolger delves into secrets that bind families together or tear them apart, creating worlds where people find that nothing is truly certain, there are always unknowable secrets just beyond reach that would make sense of their lives if they only know how to unlock them.

‘Bolger writes with great intuition about the secrets and lies that circulate beneath the surface of our everyday lives.’ – Sunday Business Post

‘[His] craft has been carved to precision by time’ – Irish Independent

‘A taut collection of stories delivered with precision and poise.’ – The Irish Times

September 2020

256pp

Rights available: World print and ebook

Rights sold: World English audio

TALES WE TELL OURSELVES

A Selection from The Decameron

Carlo Gébler

‘Memento vivere – remember that you must live – is the message of the Decameron.’

–The New York Times

Six centuries on from the Black Death – the plague that gave inspiration to Giovanni Boccaccio’s masterpiece – we are in the midst of another pandemic. The mortality rates may not be the same but the psychological toll is not so dissimilar. As the virus subdues and suborns our psyches, and dampens our sense of ourselves as being fully human, a text by a writer who believes stories can help to restore what is damaged, what is stifled by pandemic, may be just what we need.

‘More than a tract for the times – it is a wonderful work of narrative fiction in its own right.’ – John Banville

November 2020

374pp

Rights available: World

A QUIET TIDE

Marianne Lee

‘Marianne Lee is a new literary star.’

– Nuala O’Connor

At the time of her death in 1815, twenty-nine-year-old Ellen Hutchins had catalogued over a thousand species of seaweed and plants from her native Bantry Bay, Ireland’s first female botanist, Ellen was a major contributor to nineteenth-century scientific discovery. And yet, like so many brilliant women lost in history, it is her personal story that will resonate today.

‘A writer of substance & intelligence .... She is canny in what she puts in & wise in what she leaves out, so that Ellen’s fate haunts the reader’

– Sunday Business Post

May 2020

396pp

Rights available: World print and ebook

Rights sold: World English audio, Persian

VOICES

An Open Door Book of Stories

Patricia Scanlan (Ed)

The Open Door series of easy reader novellas by well-known Irish writers has found audiences across the globe in the two decades since it began. In this our first collection of stories, we have gathered a range of voices to suit every taste. With themes ranging from family and friendship to ageing, love and childhood, there is something for everyone. So come on in...

Featuring writing from:

Blindboy Boatclub, Dermot Bolger, Marita Conlon-McKenna, Sinéad Crowley, Martina Devlin, Roddy Doyle, Christine Dwyer Hickey, Rachael English, Patrick Freyne, Yan Ge, Carlo Gébler, Ciara Geraghty, Ruth Gilligan, Emily Hourican, Úna-Minh Kavanagh, Louise Kennedy, Sinéad Moriarty, Graham Norton, Nuala O’Connor, Roisín O’Donnell, Sheila O’Flanagan, Colm O’Regan, Paul Perry, Deirdre Purcell, Donal Ryan, Patricia Scanlan, Melatu Uche Okorie

September 2020

208pp

Rights available: World

IN HER SHOES

Women of the Eighth

Erin Darcy

‘These are real stories, real women, real bodies, real lives. This could be my story, my body, my life too. Our stories keep us alive.’ – Totally Dublin

In the few months before the referendum to repeal the ban on abortion in Ireland, Erin Darcy’s Facebook page, In Her Shoes, gained 100,000 followers and reached 4 million readers a week. It platformed anonymised stories of women who had been forced to travel outside the State for terminations.

In Her Shoes: Women of the Eighth reproduces 32 of those anonymous stories, representing the entire island of Ireland. Published with their authors’ consent and illustrated by Erin, they are powerful testimonies to storytelling as salvation from heartache and stigma.

September 2020

256pp

Rights available: World print and ebook

Rights sold: World English audio

PEACE AFTER THE FINAL BATTLE

The Story of the Irish Revolution, 1912-1924

John Dorney

Within the space of just a dozen years, Ireland was completely transformed. From being a superficially loyal part of the British Empire, it emerged as a self-governing state. How and why did Ireland go from welcoming royalty in 1912 to independence in 1922?

In this exciting new updated edition, drawing on new research and the most recent material in this field, historian John Dorney examines the roots of the revolution, using the experiences of the men and women of the time.

As Ireland approaches a re-appraisal of the Civil War it has never truly confronted, John Dorney’s engaging history of those years – now in paperback for the first time – is a must read.

September 2020

382pp

Rights available: World

KEY BACKLIST

ARE YOU SOMEBODY?

Nuala O'Faolain

Introduction by June Caldwell

'This book has to be read'

- The New York Times

Are You Somebody? is the incredibly candid story of Nuala O'Faolain, born one of nine children into the penniless family of an overwhelmed mother and charming but absent father.

Nuala O'Faolain was saved from a harrowing childhood by her love of books and reading. Though she ultimately became one of Ireland's best-known columnists, her professional success did little to ease her longing for a deep connection to the world. She pushed at the boundaries of the confining Catholic Ireland she grew up in and has distilled her experiences into a wisdom that could come only from a woman who refused to shrink from life. A runaway international best-seller, it was No. 1 on The New York Times best seller list.

A strikingly vivid and starkly emotional memoir, Are You Somebody? is, like O'Faolain herself, a singular example of courage, honesty, and bold living.

First published 1996

New commemorative edn 2018

Rights available: World excl. French and USA

'A rich, fierce memoir'

- The New Yorker

'An astonishing book...a classic'

- Times Literary Supplement

'A beautiful exploration of human loneliness and happiness of contentment and longing'

- Washington Post

THE LONELY SEA AND SKY

Dermot Bolger

‘Pound for pound, word for word, I’d have Bolger represent us in any literary Olympics.’

– Colum McCann

‘the way he smuggles ‘the bigger themes’ into the narrative hull ... grants this historical fiction “modern classic” status.’ – Irish Independent

Part historical fiction, part extraordinary coming-of-age tale, The Lonely Sea and Sky charts the maiden voyage of 14-year-old Jack Roche aboard a tiny Wexford merchant ship, on a treacherous wartime journey to Portugal.

2016, 400pp

Rights available: World

AN ARK OF LIGHT

Dermot Bolger

‘unrivalled eloquence.’ – Sunday Independent

‘Dermot Bolger is fast attaining the status of national treasure.’ – Sunday Business Post

Eva Fitzgerald defies convention in 1950s Ireland by leaving a failed marriage to embark on an extraordinary journey of self-discovery. It takes her from teeming Moroccan streets and being flour-bombed in radical marches in London to living in old age in a caravan that becomes an ark for all those whom she befriends amid the fields of Mayo.

This standalone novel completes the real-life story of the unforgettable heroine of Bolger’s bestselling The Family on Paradise Pier, in following a free spirit trying to hold her family together while striving to be happy.

2018, 400pp

Rights available: World

Rights sold: French

THE BIG YAROO

Patrick McCabe

‘Dark, irreverent, sharp and energetic—Pat McCabe’s exceptional gifts remain unparalleled.’

— Nicole Flattery

‘Gloriously deranged, wired to the moon, truly inspired—this is a beautiful comeback for Francie B.’ — Kevin Barry

Francie Brady, the broken Butcher Boy, leads a busy life in Fizzbag Mansions, where he was incarcerated five decades ago after the mistake with Mrs Nugent. Still obsessed with the comic books of his childhood, he has found a new vocation – as a publisher of his very own magazine, The Big Yaroo, and Francie throws himself into its production, working to a deadline in more ways than one. Uproariously funny, terrifying and profound, this is the swansong of one Irish literature’s most enduring characters.

2019, 256pp

Rights available: World

HEARTLAND

Patrick McCabe

‘[McCabe] is the fortunate possessor of a savage and unfettered imagination; his books ... dissect life’s miseries with a gleaming comedic scalpel’

– The Times

‘A sort of Beckettian Reservoir Dogs: full of menacing patter and gold teeth glinting in the moonlight.’ – The Irish Times

‘He writes like an Irish Lenny Bruce ... and somehow it all makes sense ... The stories McCabe tells have a terrible beauty.’

– The New York Times

A backwoods sinfonia of rough poetry and black comedy about the love we give and the horror we visit upon one other – and ourselves.

2018, 324pp

Rights available: World

HARVESTING

Lisa Harding

Film in development.

Winner of Kate O'Brien Award 2018

‘Impressive and profoundly moving. It’s a harrowing read, but is never gratuitous.’ – Irish Examiner

‘Shockingly good’ – Roddy Doyle

Sammy is a spiky, quick-witted and sharp teenager living in Dublin; Nico is a warm and conscientious girl from Moldova. When they are thrown together in a Dublin brothel in a horrific twist of fate, a peculiar and important bond is formed ...

2018, 372pp
Rights available: World, ex
North America
Rights sold: French, Film

BEAUTIFUL PICTURES OF THE LOST HOMELAND

Mia Gallagher

Mia Gallagher’s tour-de-force ‘is the Irish novel whose reputation will grow in the coming years’
– Mike McCormack

‘a massively ambitious novel ... it’s hard to better.’

– Sunday Independent

A bomb blast in the London Underground rips through space and time, unearthing four stories that whirl, collide and pass each other by, from the present day, when transsexual Georgia Madden flees her Dublin home, to the 1970s, when Madden family begins to disintegrate and a disruptive stranger arrives who will bind them, briefly.

2016, 494pp
Rights available: World

THE JOE SWALLOW SERIES

Conor Brady

‘Like a road movie set in your neighbourhood, it delivers a thrilling sense of the familiar lit with the profane.’ – Sunday Independent

2018, 304pp

Rights available: World

In The Dark River

The fall of Charles Stewart Parnell and the collapse of the Irish struggle for Home Rule form the political background to the fourth Joe Swallow novel. As Swallow and his colleagues grapple with two challenging murder cases, they must also struggle to contain the extremists who believe that the only course now is renewed violence.

2016, 346pp

Rights available: World
excl. N. America

A Hunt in Winter

In Dublin, a series of violent attacks against women leads to an outbreak of panic and fear, and things on the home front are about to change in an unexpected way. Meanwhile, the British are eager to discredit the Irish parliamentary leader Parnell, and Swallow's conflicted loyalties pull him in different directions.

2013, 373pp

Rights available: World
excl. N. America

The Eloquence of the Dead

When a Dublin Pawnbroker is found murdered and the lead suspect goes missing, Sergeant Joe Swallow is handed the poisoned chalice of the investigation. Under pressure from the authorities, the public and the press, Swallow must use every trick in his arsenal to crack the case.

2012, 351pp

Rights available: World
excl. N. America

A June of Ordinary Murders

Dublin, June 1887: the mutilated bodies of a man and a child are discovered in Phoenix Park and Detective Sergeant Joe Swallow steps up to investigate. Cynical and tired, Swallow is a man living on past successes in need of a win.

MODERN IRISH CLASSICS

Corporatisation and globalisation have brought about some serious trends in publishing: what gets published, and what remains in print, is increasingly determined by 'bean counters'. One can't ignore the commercial realities of commissioning and stock management, but there is still a lot of leeway if one is prepared not to chase record breaking margins at all times.

New Island therefore decided to launch their Modern Irish Classics in attempt to bring back or to retain in print work where our extended editorial board feels there is an ongoing interest in writers and works who would otherwise be condemned to obscurity.

We were very encouraged by record breaking Irish sales for Sinéad Gleeson's The Long Gaze Back. This book has managed to highlight the role of women writers in Irish literature over recent centuries, so much so that in a number of cases the extended work of these writers found their way back into print in our series, Nora Hoult and Mary Lavin being outstanding examples.

There is no assumption whatsoever that Modern Irish Classics are the nucleus of a revised canon of Irish literature. Just look at it as the recommendation of a bunch of literary activists and enthusiasts whose suggestions you will hopefully enjoy.

Edwin Higel,
Publisher

Cocktail Bar
 Nora Houl
 Intro by Sinéad Gleeson
 Rights: World
 Rights sold: Italian

Farewell Happy Fields
 Nora Houl
 Intro by Louise Kennedy
 Rights: World

The Life of Riley
 Anthony Cronin
 Rights: World

Dogs Enjoy the Morning
 Benedict Kiely
 Intro by Martina Devlin
 Rights: World

The Cards of the Gambler
 Benedict Kiely
 Rights: World

Us
 Martin Malone
 Rights: World